Transitions in the Economy:
a digital and circular future

Panel discussion Mission Zero

Mission Zero is aiming at an economy running on sustainable energy and renewable raw materials and resources. The use of new raw materials and non-sustainable energy must reach zero. We believe in an integral approach. On route to Mission Zero we will encounter a few obstacles: technological, economic, social and administrative. How do we, with business and government, ensure that these approaches come together?

Moderator:

Bas van der Berg, researcher Research Group Circular Business
